

EISENHOWER DECISION BY END OF MONTH

State Opposes Stop Light in Use Here

About Town

And Country
By TIMOTHEUS T.

VACHEL DAVIS, the Eldorado artist, has written an interesting article about the passing of the last two big oak trees that stood in the I. & N. grove, near the up-town area, for years and years. Timmo remembers the grove very well, with its carnivals and shows and chauntaus and meetings in the summer time. That many years ago there were lots of trees.

Davis, in a printed pamphlet, writes the "Saga of the Passing of Two Ancient Oaks." What they saw before they were listed as officially dead is the history of the area: The railroad tracks that were laid alongside the area and the noisy, whistling trains that came; the Civil War, veterans reunions, houses, a church, a factory building (now Federal Wholesale Co.), a children's playground.

He's done a nice job in fifteen hundred words.

THREE EVENTS are coming to our city in the future which should attract considerable interest.

Remember Richard Applegate? He's the NBC foreign correspondent and former United Press South-east Asia manager who was captured by Chinese Reds and imprisoned for 18 months. He can tell what Communism is really like. Applegate will be a Dinner Club speaker here in March, following the Feb. 22 speaking engagement by Robert Kazmayer.

You've heard of the Negro choir, Wings over Jordan. I know. This 12-voice group will be at the Methodist church in Harrisburg Feb. 12.

And the Lions club is building up a program which will have nationally-known headlines. It will be in Davenport gym March 24.

NEW USE for The Daily Register: We're told that if your wife is away on vacation and you want to get her home in a hurry, just send her a copy of the paper with one item clipped out.

AND HERE'S a definition of "thrift," to close this thing up: Thrift is "A wonderful virtue—especially in ancestors."

Boy Scout Program Observed At Kiwanis Club

Ten members of Boy Scout Troop 23, sponsored by the First Presbyterian church, presented their Scout oath and loyalty opening service and the Scout benediction closing ceremony at a meeting of the Kiwanis last night at the Masonic temple.

The program was the club's observance of Boy Scout Week.

The group, with John Utter, senior patrol leader, in charge, was composed of the following Scouts: Bill Arensman, Jerry Jahn, Byford Winford, John Rhodes, Greg James, Larry Browder, Bill Salus, Bob Arensman and Stephen James.

A colored moving picture showing scenes and activities at the beautiful Philmont Boy Scout camp at Philmont ranch in New Mexico was shown by Gene Morris.

Charles Shingler was introduced as a new member of the club and John McDugle was a guest. Shingler and McDugle are co-chairmen of the Boy Scout drive and Ronnie Doerge, president of the club, urged club members to give their full support to the drive.

The club will observe a Valentine Day Ladies' night program next Tuesday at 6 p. m.

Council Told Of Standards It Must Meet

Highway Division
Requires Corner
Lights, Parallel Parking

The Illinois Division of Highways yesterday turned thumbs down on the type of stop-and-go light the City of Harrisburg has been trying out at the Main-Poplar intersection. The signal was removed last night.

A highway division representative in the blocks approaching the city council and declared that such a stoplight as a permanent fixture definitely is out, and there might possibly be a chance of getting a permit for it if the device is used only temporarily.

Instead, Kupel suggested, if the city wants stoplights it must get a permit from the state because it is on state highways. He added that the state highway division has certain standards which must be met for such a permit.

Require Parking Changes
The lights would cost around $7,000 according to the state standards, it was pointed out. The state also would require parallel parking with part of the city's share of the lights and that would mean parking changes on the south side of East Poplar and the west side of North Main—the south and west sides of the square.

The previous administration had taken definite action to go that far in installing stop lights at Main and Poplar, but balked when it was found that the sidewalk on the south side of the square would have to be lowered so that people could emerge from the right side of parked cars. The entire project then would have cost somewhere between $10,000 and $15,000 and that was more money than the city could spend, although with state approval such things could be done with part of the city's share of state motor fuel tax funds.

But, it was pointed out, spending $15,000 to get stop lights in would be taking that much money away from another or other street projects in the city.

The portable light was placed in the middle of the intersection late Saturday on a trial basis and has been running except during the night hours when its battery got a charging, and police had hoped to make a permanent apparatus out of it by running a power line out to it.

Obstructs Street, Kupel Says
The people at Carbondale heard about it and sent Kupel over to explain the facts to the council.

"The history of your signal and I've come over to let you know that when anything goes on a highway, the division of highways must be consulted even if it is placed inside a municipality," he said with affability, and added:

"Permission must be received from the division to put up a signal on a highway and it's definitely built that a permit could be received for a signal such as the one I understand you are trying out."

"We've found," he continued, "that for a permanent signal, it's not what it's cracked up to be. It's an obstruction in the middle of the street. I ask you council members to consider not buying it."

At this point Commissioner Don Williams asked him:

"The history of your signal and I've come over to let you know that when anything goes on a highway, the division of highways must be consulted even if it is placed inside a municipality," he said with affability, and added:

To Ask Complete Investigation
Kupel said it could not but that if the city would meet certain specifications, such as put up four-corner lights and change its parking, the city could spend its own motor fuel tax money on it.

Police Commissioner Charles R. Hine said the people here would want to know what right the state has to tell the people of a community what it has to do and was informed that the Statutes provide authority to the division of highways to govern the highways.

"We are not objecting to your use of lights, but insist that you do it right," said Kupel.

Hine replied that "we want to do for about $900 what you want us to do for $7,000 or more."

At the conclusion of the subject, it was decided that the city write the division of highways requesting for a complete traffic investigation of the city's problem.

The new prediction for the Ohio river crest at Shawneetown is 37 feet Sunday. The river was at a 34.6 foot state yesterday, a rise of 1.1 feet in 24 hours.

17,000 to Train At Breckinridge During Season

MORGANFIELD, Ky. — Camp Breckinridge near here will open June 17 with its second training program, during which an estimated 17,000 troops will participate.

The Ohio National Guard, Ohio Reserves, Kentucky National Guard, Kentucky Reserves and an element of the West Virginia National Guard will train at the camp.

All of them were at the camp last year. In addition, a chaplain's school and military intelligence school will be held at Breckinridge this season.

At least 652 civilian employees will be required this season. Most will report for duty April 1. Mrs. Henrietta Culver of the civilian personnel office reported.

Council Opens Bids for Street Repair Materials

No Action Taken;
Water, Sewer Workers
Seek Pay Increase

The Harrisburg city council yesterday opened bids of five suppliers for materials to improve Harrisburg streets that do not fall under the state's motor fuel tax programs.

The bids were received by the Barter Engineering Co. of Harrisburg, Charles N. Smith of Benton, Franklin Asphalt Co. of Benton, Arrow Road Construction Co. of Centralia and Cloyd Simpson of Harrisburg.

No action was taken as the city council members seek to study which is best of two proposals asked. Bids were for oil and chips and one proposal asked for the gravel to be spread by the supplier, the other calling for the city to do this work itself.

Workers Ask Pay Raise

Members of Local Union 815 of Operating Engineers, who are employees of the city water and sewer department, were present at the meeting with William J. Stuhler, international representative and the International Union, who asked for a 10 per cent raise for the union members. A state labor conciliator probably will be asked to come into the case.

Mr. Stuhler, from East St. Louis, said "we feel the men are entitled to a 10 per cent raise."

He said that the men had foregone asking for a raise previously and had co-operated with the city in every way.

"I think a pay raise is long overdue," he declared.

Council members told Stuhler that they did not believe the water and sewer departments could afford any raise that they are operating in the red now at from $500 to $800 a month, that "we must be governed by the revenue we take in."

It was explained that the Lake Harrisburg bond issue has taken up any surplus the water department might have and has thrown it into a deficit.

Would Require Rate Boost

If there is an increase in pay, water rates must be raised to take

Illinois High School Senior Phones Kremlin to Ask Bulganin a Question

BARRINGTON, Ill. (U.P.)—Charles Mee, 17, a high school senior, decided to get some advice direct from Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin before he wrote a class term paper.

He placed a telephone call to the Kremlin. And 13½ hours later, at a cost of $15, Mee had asked one question for his term paper, got an "I don't know answer," and said goodbye.

"I couldn't think of anything else to say," Mee said today.

But he at least had satisfaction of talking to the top man in Russia—he thinks.

Three friends of Mee, Royal Hartwig, Stephen Hoffman, and James Condill, all 18, of Barrington, urged him to make the call as they discussed Mee's term paper Monday night.

They put in the call and Tuesday 13½ hours later, the call went through.

The long distance operator assured Mee that Bulganin was on

Boost Quotas For Immigrants, President Asks

Eisenhower Seeks
Additional 65,000
In Special Message

WASHINGTON (U.P.) — President Eisenhower urged Congress today to boost U. S. immigration quotas by about 65,000 persons a year as part of a program to liberalize the controversial McCarran-Walter immigration law.

He also called for legislation to halt "depraved criminals" from "abusing" the right of appeal to the courts after they have been ordered deported from this country.

In a 5,500-word special message to the House and Senate, Mr. Eisenhower said the additional immigration quotas which he proposed should be "distributed among countries in proportion to their actual immigration to this country" since 1945. The effect would be to give a break to countries like Italy and Greece, which have long waiting lists of would-be immigrants to America.

Present ceiling on immigration is 154,657 persons a year. Mr. Eisenhower noted that this was "derived from a formula based upon the 1920 population." He said the country's "economic growth" since that time warrants increasing the ceiling to 220,000.

Asks Prompt Action

Appealing for prompt action on his proposals, Mr. Eisenhower said that "throughout our history immigration has contributed greatly to the strength and character of our republic."

Liberalizing the immigration act, he said, "will advance our own self-interest" and "also serve as living demonstration that we recognize our responsibilities of world leadership."

Despite the President's plea, chances for congressional approval of the program this year are believed to be slim. Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.), co-author of the act and chairman of the House committee that handles the immigration bills, already has announced his opposition to any extensive revisions.

James M. McCabe, 68, died at his home northwest of Stonefort at 2:45 p. m. yesterday.

He leaves his wife, Mary, and the following children: Francis McCabe and Johnnie McCabe of Marion, J. V. and Clarence of Stonefort, Vinson of Creal Springs, Alan and Daisy at home; and five grandchildren.

The funeral will be Friday at 10 a. m. at St. Francis De Sales Catholic church. Father Glenn Sims will officiate and burial will be in the New Burnside cemetery.

The body was taken to the residence to lie in state today from the Thornton funeral home.

Pinned for Eight Hours in Auto Wreckage

MOUNT CARMEL, Ill. (U.P.) — Bernard Wallace, 22, is recovering today after being pinned for eight hours in the wreckage of his car.

Wallace, a farmer, is being treated for shock, exposure, cuts and bruises that resulted from the accident Tuesday night.

Wallace said lights from another car blinded him as he approached a bridge over a creek on Ill. 1. His car went over the bridge railing and landed on the creek bank.

Wallace was pinned in the badly damaged car until 7 a. m. this morning when Charles Clem, a farmer living near here, discovered the wreckage.

Illinois High School Senior Phones Kremlin to Ask Bulganin a Question

BARRINGTON, Ill. (U.P.)—Charles Mee was assured by the voice at the other end that he was speaking to the premier.

"I would like to ask you a question," Mee said. "I hope you will be able to answer."

"Since the Russian draft of a treaty of friendship has been refused by the United States, what will be the next move on the part of the Kremlin—will another attempt be made along this line?" Mee asked.

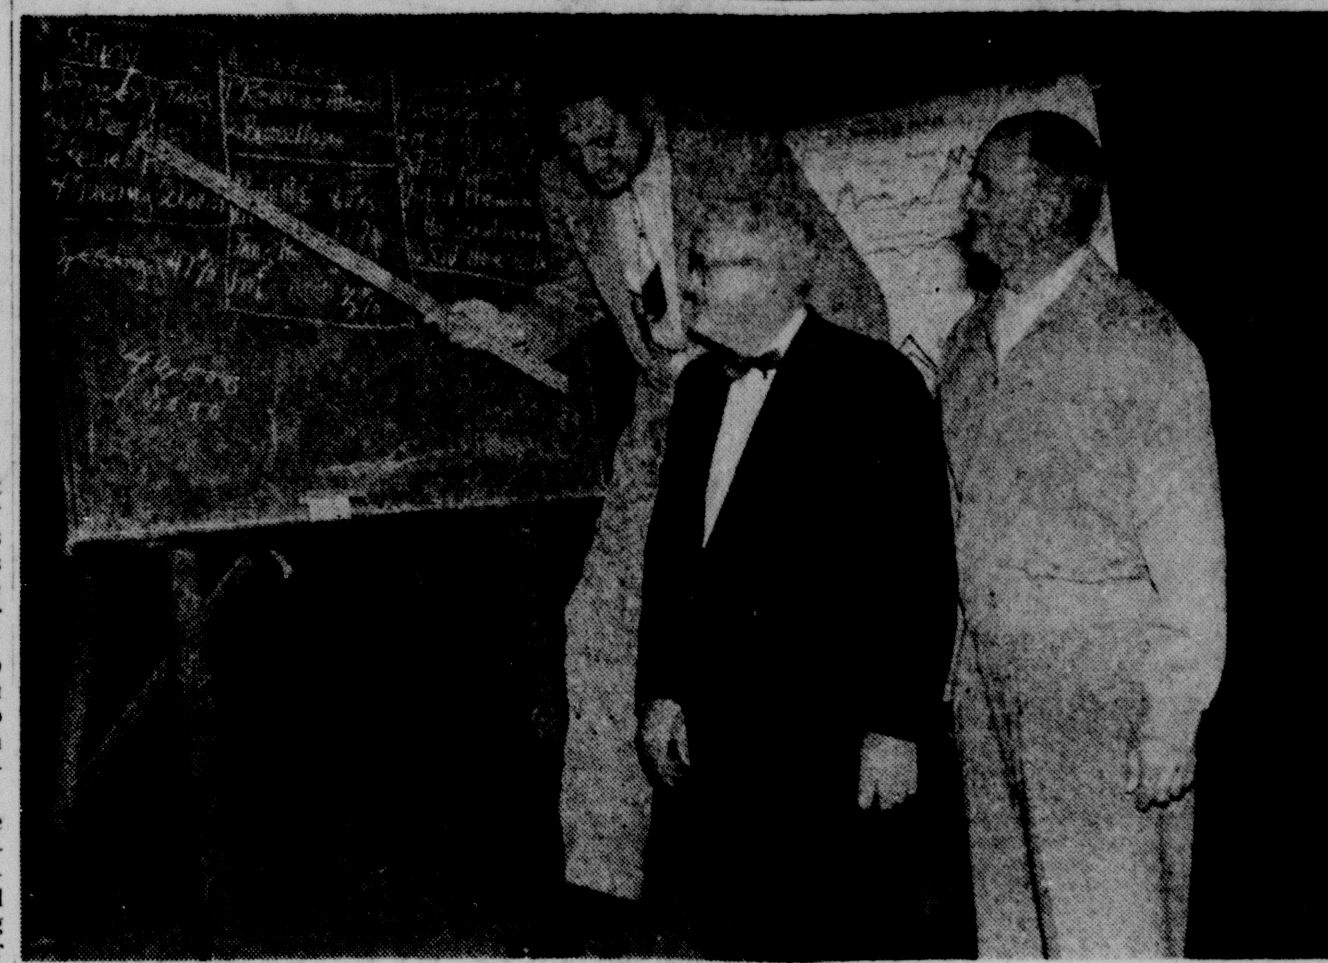

"No, no—I don't know," was the reply.

Static disrupted further attempts at conversation. Then Mee said "goodbye." Mee said his history teacher told him that is Russian for "goodbye."

Mee heard a chuckle at the other end of the line.

"Goodbye," said the Kremlin voice.

Mee still is wondering what to write about for his term paper.

Area Leaders Discuss Farm Policy At District IAA Meeting Held Here

The official stand of the Illinois Agricultural Association on hot issues in national farm policy—including support levels, soil bank plans, federal crop insurance, and others—was presented yesterday at the Harrisburg city hall in a meeting of 65 farm leaders from the southeast part of Illinois.

Speaking on resolutions of the IAA, the state Farm Bureau organization, as well as on resolutions of the American Farm Bureau Federation, I. E. Paret of the IAA staff in Chicago, emphasized that "Farm Bureau is for 100 per cent of parity, too." He continued that the resolutions aim at laws to increase farm income thru the natural process of adjusting supply to demand.

Paret stated the flexible price supports advocated by Farm Bureau would materially reduce surpluses. He pointed out that high price supports and controls dislocate crops from their most economic areas of production, seriously affecting corn, hog and soybean farmers—but not cutting the total production of the commodities.

In his talk, Paret said "in all the claims about who originated the soil bank idea, we may lose sight of what soil banks are supposed to do." He said the Farm Bureau's plan is concerned with both conservation and a reduction of surpluses.

Held by the IAA with the Saline County Farm Bureau as host, the meeting was one of a series going on throughout the state this week. According to Alfred Rister, of Omaha, chairman of the meeting, purpose of the series is to give leaders from each county an insight into the details of the resolutions.

Rister said the leaders would have the responsibility to report in county meetings. He pointed out how the resolutions are based on ideas gathered from the farmers themselves in similar county and area meetings last fall, prior to annual meetings of the IAA and AFBF. Rister is an IAA director from the 24th district.

Ray Hunter, Chicago, IAA director of natural resources, told the meeting in a discussion of resolutions on state legislative affairs that "the problems of water use and rights may become the biggest problems farmers in this area will have to deal with."

Topics discussed by Hunter included recommendations for laws on taxes, safety, toll roads, brucellosis control, 4-H premium schedules, a home economics building at Southern Illinois university and others, in addition to the water use resolution.

In the discussion period that followed the talks, Arthur Seeds of the IAA Marketing Division drew a number of questions from the farm leaders on the spread between producer and consumer prices. Frank Chambers represented the IAA Organization Department at the meeting here.

Saline, White, Massac, Wayne, Gallatin, Johnson, Edwards, Pope, Hardin and Hamilton counties were represented at the meeting.

Eldorado Vet One Of Nine Willing to Wed German Girl

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (U.P.) — A 19-year-old German girl who wrote Gov. Leroy Collins to help her find a "not rich, but wealthy" American husband has got nine good prospects.

The governor's office reported Tuesday that nine eligible bachelors in five states have answered Miss Karin Leschke's letter and are definitely interested in her proposition of matrimony.

A 10th sent a letter, but he did not offer romance, only asking assistance in locating some war-time friends in Berlin.

The 10 letters will be forwarded immediately to Miss Leschke in Berlin.

From Eldorado, Ill., a Navy veteran wrote that he prefers a German wife and owns "several oil wells."

The young Fraulein also received a letter from an airman at Chanute Field, Ill.

President Says He Will Not Name Candidate

Decision Will Be Based on Own Feelings,
Chief Executive Says

By MERRIMAN SMITH
WASHINGTON (U.P.) — President Eisenhower told a news conference today that he thought he would be able to announce his decision on a second term by the end of this month.

Mr. Eisenhower made it clear that in coming to a decision, he will be guided by whether or not he feels he would be sufficiently healthy to carry on the burdens of the presidency. In any case, he said, he will never again go out barnstorming again.

He also said his present inclination is to make his announcement at a news conference because he has come to develop a deep affection for his meetings with reporters. But he said that if a lengthy explanation might be necessary, that might be another matter.

Mr. Eisenhower was asked a series of questions about the possible availability of Chief Justice Earl Warren as a Republican presidential candidate. He said there were many ways Warren could be a candidate and the chief justice would encounter no opposition from Mr. Eisenhower.

Mr. Eisenhower said, however, that he did not think it would be appropriate for him in case he decides not to run again, to ask any other Republican to make the race.

To do so, the President said, would imply that he could win the election for another man.

Other news highlights at Mr. Eisenhower's meeting with reporters: 1. The recent riots involving a Negro student at the University of Alabama are deplorable.

2. He conceded that Russia might be ahead of this country in some aspects of the development of guided missiles, but he thought the United States is ahead in other areas. He said he thought this country's guided missile program represents the best possible effort of American scientists.

3. He has not yet completed his reply to the latest letter from Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin. He wants to continue the exchange of correspondence with the Russian leader on the theory that this country should never take the position of blocking any available avenue to peace, no matter how tiny.

4. He will do everything within his constitutional powers to prevent an outbreak of hostilities in the Middle East.

5. As far as he knows, his brother

More Popular Than Ever

Editorial — BY BRUCE BOSSAT President Eisenhower has now completed three fourths of the term to which he was elected in November, 1952. That is a sufficient span to allow the American people to judge him as Chief Executive.

The celebrations honoring him at this milestone bear a largely partisan Republican stamp. But the evidences suggest that many millions of Americans would happily associate themselves with such homage.

For Mr. Eisenhower is an extremely popular man, as much or more so than the day he was elected with an all-time record of nearly 34 million votes. Judged in these terms, his tenure of office thus far has been a smashing success.

The verdict of the historians may or may not coincide with the popular judgment, but it is bound to be affected by it.

There really is not a great deal new that can be said in explanation of this popularity that was not uttered at the time of the President's fateful heart attack last September. At that time he learned, as few living men do, in what high esteem his countrymen held him.

In the beginning, it seemed to be chiefly a matter of trust. Mr. Eisenhower was a man who had taken a big role in bringing the American people safely through a great war and preparing their defenses against the prospect of another.

His performance in office tended to confirm that feeling of trust. The President revealed himself as a man intensely dedicated to the preservation of peace, the cause most Americans wanted to see served with full devotion.

In the domestic realm, his tenure was linked first with a moderate economic decline and then with a resurgence that carried the nation to new peaks of prosperity.

Here again, the great majority of Americans appeared inclined to credit him with striving earnestly to better their lot in life.

Almost beyond these things, Americans came to view Mr. Eisenhower as a man of such innate sincerity and decency that he has stamped the fresh imprint of these qualities on the country's public life. He has quieted if he has not stilled, the angry currents being stirred by the extremists when he assumed the presidency. The tenor of public discussion is calmer, and there is more unity in the United States than in many a day.

His critics in his own party think he has been too much a Democrat. His Democratic adversaries think—or say—he has benefited from the "illusion" rather than the fact of peace and prosperity.

If President Eisenhower should decide to run for a second term, those who would prove these circumstances "illusory" have their work cut out for them. For most people show no signs today of doubting the substance of these favorable conditions.

They have watched the President for three years. And they like what they have seen.

Flower of Boyhood

Next month the Boy Scouts of America celebrate their 46th birthday anniversary by launching a new four-year program to be called, "Onward for God and My Country."

The goal of the program is to give America's youth wider opportunity to develop physical fitness, self-reliance, a sense of religious obligation, a feeling of personal responsibility, greater willingness to share and to help others, and an understanding of the nation's democratic processes.

In a day when the path of our youth seems strewn with greater hazards than ever and the performance of American youngsters is under heavy challenge, the Boy Scouts loom large as a tremendous force for sound guidance and development. No movement in America merits more encouragement.

Let Americans everywhere join in making the Boy Scouts' new program the success it deserves to be.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

by DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:

Jimmy Roosevelt Puts Brownell On The Spot; RCA's Manufacture Of Walkie-Talkie Investigated.

WASHINGTON — Congressman Jimmy Roosevelt of California has handed Attorney General Brownell a hot potato that he can't either drop, throw back or hold in his hand.

The eldest son of the late president, now in Congress, has written Brownell a letter, couched in the most polite and dignified language, asking what power Brownell has regarding Negro voting rights in the south and what he plans to do about them.

Roosevelt doesn't mention the Emmett Till murder in Mississippi nor even the large number of Negroes reported to have been barred from registering in Mississippi since that murder. What he does remind the attorney general of denial of "the right to vote because of the color of skin, accident of birth, and the threat of violence."

Then Roosevelt proceeds to ask Brownell three blunt questions:

1. "Is there existing federal law to take care of the situation?"
2. "If legislation is needed do you plan to recommend such legislation?"
3. "If such recommendations are planned, do you plan to make your views known in the near future so that action may be taken at this session of Congress?"

If Brownell replies that no new laws are needed, then he puts himself in the position of being negligent about enforcing current laws. If he replies that more laws are needed, then he gives support to northern Democrats who already have drafted an anti-lynching bill.

It will be interesting to see what Brownell does with his hot potato.

KEE'S $64,000 QUESTION

Most positive promoter of the idea that Eisenhower will run again is Gen. Lucius Clay, former commander of the American armies in Germany after Eisenhower returned to the USA in the post-war days. Clay, now head of Continental Can, had a session with Eisenhower at Gettysburg, following which he told friends that he was certain the President would run again. General Clay incidentally is one of the closest men to Eisenhower, picked most of the cabinet for him, including Charles Wilson as secretary of Defense, Arthur Summerfield as postmaster general, and George Humphrey as secretary of the treasury.

RCA PROBE

A $4,000,000 order for Korean war walkie-talkies which were not waterproofed for moisture and fungus is now being investigated by the General Accounting Office, thanks to the prodding of Congressman Joe Tumulty of Jersey City, N. J.

The radio walkie-talkies were manufactured by the Radio Corporation of America, and official reports now state that RCA gave Uncle Sam the hairy end of the radio lollipop, with some Signal Corps officers apparently quite pro-RCA.

Here is the inside story of what happened: On Aug. 17, 1950, shortly after the Korean War started, the Signal Corps ordered 10,285 walkie-talkies from RCA for $4,427,945.45. The contract specifically stated:

"All supplies except rotating electrical power equipment will be treated for resistance to moisture and fungus."

About a year later, however, June 4, 1951, RCA asked the Signal Corps to waive the requirement for over-all moisture- and fungus-proofing in favor of partial treatment. This was ok'd by the chief Signal Corps inspector, Elric P. Guilbeau, stationed at the RCA plant. It was also ok'd by Anthony Carnevale, Signal Corps chief engineer on June 12, 1951. Finally, it was ok'd July 12, 1951, by Capt. A. M. Seltzer, Signal Corps contracting officer.

However, these Signal Corps officers failed to get a price reduction on the walkie-talkies to compensate for the fact that moisture- and fungus-proofing was to be partially waived.

"None of the Signal Corps personnel who were involved in the waiver of over-all MFP treatment," says the General Accounting Office report, "recommended that the price of equipment be decreased on that account."

FAULTY RADIOS

However, when the first 25 walkie-talkies that RCA turned off the assembly line were tested, four developed rust. Later, in 1952 and 1953, Army units which had to use walkie-talkies complained. One report from the Korean command stated:

"This item has not been mfp'd when manufactured, and as a result fungus, rust, and corrosion caused deterioration in major parts."

Reported the Fourth Division in Europe: "Ten per cent of radio set AN PRC-10 have developed internal corrosion and fungus. . . it is recommended that the manufacturer apply a moisture- and fungus-proofing solution in the assembly of radio set AN PRC-8, 9, and 10 and that spare parts be moisture-fungus proofed."

As a result, the Signal Corps in April 1953 finally asked the Radio Corporation of America to restate its over-all MFP—this being the Army term for "moisture and fungus proofing." Whereupon, RCA charged Uncle Sam an additional $4.95 per set.

In other words, RCA was permitted to get out of its moisture-proof contract in the first place without a reduction in the cost of the walkie-talkies. Then it turned around and charged the Army $4.95 a set for resuming the moisture-proofing.

Nevertheless, this extra charge was okayed by Capt. J. A. Malinik, the Signal Corps contracting officer in Philadelphia.

Thus the taxpayers paid $50,910.75 under the first contract for something they didn't get; then turned around and paid an extra $50,910.75 on the second contract. Total loss: $101,821.50.

Commented Tumulty: "If as much concern had been given to the taxpayers' interest as to RCA's, a lot of the taxpayers' money would have been saved and a lot of their sons saved in Korea."

Do Not Overemphasize Material Things, DePaul Graduates Advised

CHICAGO — The material things of life should not be over-emphasized in judging the worth of one's life, the Rev. John J. Battle told 220 graduates of De Paul University.

Agriculture Equals Major Industry In County, Morgan Tells Methodist Men

Nearly 50 members of the Methodist Men's group last night heard Thomas Morgan, farm planner of the Saline County Soil Conservation district, declare that the agriculture industry is fast becoming the major industry in Saline county.

Speaking at Wesley Center, he told the group that farming has a wonderful potential for expansion, is a permanent industry that will stay with us, and declared that business people should get behind the promotion of farm programs that increase the agricultural dollars in the county.

Mr. Morgan and the board of directors of the district were guests of the Methodist men.

The speaker pointed out that in previous years, business looked to mining as the major source of income in the county, but added that with machinery replacing manpower and because the farm dollar has been increasing because of better farming methods, the agriculture industry income right now is equal to the total payroll of the coal mining industry in Saline county.

And, he pointed out, there is a great potential for increasing the agricultural dollar through better conservation methods.

Besides Mr. Morgan's remarks, there was the showing of a film, "The Soil and the Book," showing the relationship of the soil and the Bible.

Absenteeism Cost Put at 5 Billion

CHICAGO — Absenteeism each year costs American industry at least $5,000,000,000, according to the Research Council for Economic Security.

The council reported that illness absences alone, by conservative estimates, cause the loss of the services and production of 1,000,000 workers every year, valued at about $5,000,000,000.

"If all data were available," the council said, "the loss from absenteeism might be found to be as much as $10,000,000,000."

In addition to the production loss, director Gerhard Hirschfeld of the research council pointed out, there is the direct loss of wages and income for the workers and the cost of medical care.

"These are considerable even with the extensive protection of group sickness compensation, hospitalization, surgical insurance and prepaid plans prevalent in industry today," Hirschfeld said.

The research council, in a book entitled "Absenteeism," summarized discussions at a seminar and workshop on absenteeism conducted by the council in 1954.

The book said there are many causes of absenteeism. It said they involve general factors of morale, attitudes toward the company and toward the supervisor, proper job placement, sense of responsibility, home and family influences and the health of the worker.

Plans which depend solely on getting rid of the "absence-prone" worker or disciplining the chronic absentee miss the mark and neither prevent nor control absenteeism, the council said.

Former High Union Official Is Freed From Prison

DANNEMORA, N. Y. (AP)—Former labor leader Joseph S. (Joey) Fay, a high union official who was convicted of extorting $368,000 from contractors, walked to freedom today through the gates of Clinton Prison where he served 8 years of a 7-12 to 15 year sentence.

The former international vice president of the AFL Operating Engineers Union was well known in labor and political circles at the time of his conviction and visits by labor and political leaders when he was at Sing Sing Prison stirred up a roaring political scandal.

Thomas E. Dewey, then governor of New York, ordered Fay sent to the maximum security prison here after the scandal broke and Fay had no more "name" visitors.

AAA Opposes Road Plan Costs To Motorists

WASHINGTON (AP)—The American Automobile Assn. complained today that ordinary motorists would have to pay an "unfair share" of new road-building costs under a tax-boosting plan proposed by House Democratic leaders.

The AAA said it is opening a drive to mobilize "grass roots" pressure on Congress to revise the tax plan so that operators of the nation's 3 1/2 million big heavy trucks pay their "fair share."

The association's opposition to the Democratic plan was voiced by its executive vice-president, Russell E. Singer, in an interview with the United Press.

Singer said he believed he was speaking not only for the AAA's five million members, but for all of the millions of motorists "who are not well organized and have no commercial ax to grind."

The Democratic plan was embodied in a bill introduced Monday by Rep. Hale Boggs (D-La.) Its major revenue-raising features include an additional 1-cent-a-gallon tax on gasoline and diesel fuel and an across-the-board tax increase of 3 cents a pound on tires, big and small. The House Ways and Means Committee will open hearings on the Boggs bill next Wednesday.

Department of Defense
Plods the Economy Path

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The only chance for a federal tax cut this year is to carry out the recommendations of ex-President Herbert Hoover's second commission on government reorganization.

That is the conclusion of the Council of 30 State Chambers of Commerce. It is one of the stronger pressure groups constantly agitating for greater government economy.

Noting that the Eisenhower administration cut spending by ten billion dollars in its first two years, Eugene F. Rinta, the Council's research director, now points out that federal spending under the new budget will now go up two billion dollars. Half of this increase will go for more national defense.

This puts the finger squarely on what Dept. of Defense is doing to carry out Hoover recommendations.

Charles A. Coolidge, Boston lawyer, is just winding up his assignment as special assistant to Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson in charge of Hoover reports. The job is being turned over to Mr. Coolidge's deputy, Floyd S. Bryant of San Francisco, a Standard of California vice president.

ONE OF THE AMAZING things about the 19 Hoover reports is that nearly every one of their 314 recommendations apply to some Dept. of Defense activity.

The job which Coolidge and Bryant have had is to get the hundreds of Defense bureaus and offices to file their views on the recommendations and get them coordinated.

Until a few weeks ago, Bureau of the Budget denied Defense the right to express its views on the Hoover recommendations, until they were coordinated with the views of other agencies. This bottleneck has now been removed.

The score card shows this action so far by Defense:

Hoover recommendations fully concurred in—133.

Concurred in with minor qualifications—103.

Not concurred in, or major qualifications—40.

Defense has not yet completed its review on three of the Hoover reports covering food and clothing procurement, business organization in Defense and special personnel problems. These cover 56 more recommendations, with some duplication in overlapping fields.

APPROVAL IS EXPECTED on the food and clothing procurement

Two Young Sicilians
Die in Gun Duel
Over Pretty Girl

AGRIGENTO, Sicily (AP)—The rivalry between two young Sicilians for the heart and hand of a pretty black-eyed maid was over today. They shot and killed each other in a blazing duel under the noon day sun.

The gun duel—like a page out of Wild West history—was witnessed by a peasant who pleaded with the men to put up their weapons.

But Salvatore Caizzi, 22, a goatherd, and Francesco Alaimo, 19, a farmhand, elected to shoot it out. Both opened fire with their old-fashioned revolvers, and both died.

It was known that the two had long agreed to fight it out for the girl they both loved.

University Students
Riot in Madrid

MADRID, Spain (AP)—Riots broke out today at the University of Madrid between Falangist students who supported Generalissimo Francisco Franco and other students protesting Falangist control of student organizations.

First reports said a number were injured.

report. This will establish central procurement for Army, Navy and Air Force, establish a uniform ration for all three services and the drawing of supplies based on number of men in service instead of on table of organization authorized strength.

Major dissents by Defense are to be filed against Hoover recommendations for abolition of post exchanges and commissary stores, reduction of shipping services and centralization of all legal services, including judge advocates' administration of military justice.

No score card has been compiled on the number of Hoover recommendations actually carried out by administrative order within Defense.

And there is no estimate on what savings in dollars, if any, have been made in next year's $42.5 billion dollar military budget by carrying out Hoover recommendations.

ON THE MATTER of eliminating commercial-type activities of the armed services, competing with private business, this is the latest count:

Over 800 out of an estimated 2,000 of these enterprises have been reviewed. Of these, 173 have been discontinued, and 189 have been approved by Secretary Wilson for continued operation.

House Appropriation Committee has approved discontinuance of 52 out of 56 others. The four ordered continued are Boston Navy Yard rope walk and chain factory, Mare Island, Calif. and Norfolk, Va., paint factories.

Thirty-two more establishments are scheduled for discontinuance if approved by Congress and 382 more are being surveyed.

This rate of progress is not being taken as any indication that economies will justify tax cuts any time soon.

Mere Future Hobby

CHICAGO (AP)—The home of tomorrow will have kitchens where cooking will be strictly a hobby, and beds that need never to be made.

That's the glowing future for Mrs. Homemaker pictured by Jay Dobbin, director of the Illinois Institute of Technology's design department.

Dobbin told the Illinois Tech Women's Club that the large kitchen equipped with many appliances will be obsolete within 10 years. He said cooking methods which enable airline stewardesses to cook meals for 60 people in less than 10 minutes will be translated to modern homes.

"Soon we will have compact radio-frequency cooking units in our homes," he said. "We will probably see the day when cooking, as we now know it, will be considered strictly a hobby."

Dobbin's bed of tomorrow will have a radio-frequency heating unit. It will encircle the sleeper and keep him comfortably warm no matter what the outside temperature, he said.

The bed would fold away automatically and be sterile cleaned when not in use, he said.

I Entered in Primary by Minnesota GOP

WASHINGTON (AP) — Minnesota Republican leaders entered President Eisenhower in their presidential primary without asking or getting assurances that he would go along, Sen. Edward J. Thye (R-Minn.) said today.

But on the basis of the Minnesota primary law, an argument can be made that no negative answer to the second term question is likely to come from Mr. Eisenhower before Feb. 25. By so doing, he would pull the rug from under his friends and the state GOP organization in the state.

The presidential primary law in Minnesota is similar to the one in New Hampshire in that a candidate may be entered without his consent but is allowed to withdraw.

Mr. Eisenhower was entered in the New Hampshire primary last month. He responded by saying he would not object but that his action should not be interpreted to mean that he had decided to run again.

Thye and other Minnesota GOP leaders put his name in the Minnesota primary last week. This action has not yet been acknowledged by the President.

Mr. Eisenhower has his next medical examination scheduled early next week and his doctors will inform him of the results Feb. 14. The doctors' report on his recovery from his heart attack last fall is expected to weigh heavily in his decision whether to accept renomination.

Some Republicans expect the President to announce his decision soon after this examination.

Back Alley Not Popular Nowadays

CHICAGO (AP) — The trend is to dispense with alleys in new subdivisions, according to the American Society of Planning Officials.

Alleys have been criticized as health hazards and as the cause of needless expense, the society said.

At least nine cities have written new subdivision regulations prohibiting alleys and providing easements instead, a check showed.

Some cities, including Detroit, Mich., are encouraging property owners in older districts to eliminate alleys and are advising them on how to do it.

The society said most arguments against alleys stress that they are expensive and a nuisance to maintain. More often than not they are littered with trash and garbage and make excellent breeding places for rats.

But the society said alleys are sensible where lots face on a major thoroughfare or in apartment house districts.

British Fans Criticize Referee for Decision Against Cuban Kid Gavilan

LONDON — Outrage boiled up today against a referee's decision that gave young Peter Waterman of Britain a split-decision victory over Cuban Kid Gavilan in a 10-round welterweight bout Tuesday night.

British fans, newspapers and officials led the criticism heaped on the aging head of Ben Green, one of the most respected ring officials in the country.

British boxing czar Jack Solomons, promoter of the fight, said there was "bound to be an inquiry" over the decision. Informed sources said it was possible the British Boxing Board of Control would reverse Green's decision.

Solomons, referees of preliminary bouts, experienced boxing reporters, and the 10,000 Harringay Arena fans all believed former world champion Gavilan had won easily with a bewildering variety of punches and aggressive tactics that obviously befuddled Waterman—whose experience gained in 30 undefeated fights was no match for the 130-pound guile of Gavilan.

Gavilan received a thundering ovation when he bounced around the ring. At first he thought he had won. So did everyone else.

The referee's card has not been made public yet. But a United Press survey of cards kept by ringside reporters showed a unanimous decision for Gavilan. The United Press card gave Gavilan seven rounds and Waterman three.

From the fifth round on, Gavilan was in complete control of the fight. He fought in flurries but was always the aggressor. He easily landed two punches to Waterman's one. He changed his boxing style at least four times and continuously drove Waterman to the ropes. Waterman obviously was befuddled by the Kid's know-how.

An official who refereed two preliminary bouts called Green's decision of Waterman "ridiculous" and said the grey-haired Green was "on his way out after this one." The official asked that his name not be used "for professional reasons and my friendship for Ben."

British newspapers, without exception, scoffed at the decision and termed Gavilan an easy winner.

Johnston has a long way to go to retain his scoring title, but Tuesday night's show gave him a season total of 1,031. That's fourth best in the league. Meanwhile, teammate Paul Arizin pitched in 26 points to take the league lead with 1,168. Bob Pettit of St. Louis is second with 1,148 and Clyde Lovellette of Minneapolis is third with 1,068.

Philadelphia increased its Eastern Division lead over Boston to 3 1/2 games by Tuesday night's win.

The Knicks increased their shaky hold on third place in the East to 2 1/2 games over Syracuse by Tuesday night's victory and also snapped a three-game losing streak.

Thompsonville Defeats Dahlgren

Thompsonville defeated Dahlgren 66-43 Tuesday night. The game was played on the winners' floor.

Thompsonville led at the end of each quarter 14-8, 29-20, 45-34 and 66-43.

Scoring—Thompsonville: Hodgson 23, Carlie 2, Doss 17, Gregory 4, March 12 and Absher 8; Dahlgren: Kelly 5, Cravens 3, Glenn 17, Hart 6, Gowler 4 and Brake 8. Officials: Tom Golden, Harrisburg and Bob Peyton, Galatia.

Hunger Riots Flare In Southern Italy, Stricken by Blizzards

ROME — The government today rushed food to southern Italy where hunger riots flared in seven towns and raging blizzards and the worst cold wave of the century threatened thousands with starvation.

The known death toll in Italy totaled 45 since the snow and cold rolled down from the north Feb. 1. The specter of starvation hung ominously over tens of thousands in hundreds of mountain villages in the Apennines isolated by heavy snowfalls for as much as eight days.

Eagles Beat Fairfield, 70-44

The Eldorado Eagles travelled to Fairfield Tuesday night and picked up a 70-44 decision. This marked the 11th victory of the season for Eldorado against seven losses, with five games remaining on the schedule. Friday night Eldorado plays at Carmi.

The Eagles, paced by Ronnie Clark's 28 points, jumped off to an 18-11 first quarter lead and held the advantage the rest of the way.

Fairfield took the preliminary game 56-43.

Galatia Edges Pope Co., 53-52, in Overtime; Equality Wins, 58-46

The only Greater Egyptian conference game played Tuesday night resulted in a 53-52 overtime victory for Galatia over Pope County.

Three other league teams engaged in non-loop play with Equality winning from Mills Prairie 58-46, Rosiclare beating Karnak 64-60 and Ridgway losing to Norris City 83-53.

Galatia, playing without the services of its high scoring captain, John Tate, was forced to rally in the fourth frame to gain a tie with Pope County and send the game into overtime.

Pope County, after trailing 11-9 at the quarter, had led at the half and also at the three quarter mark, 40-37. Galatia then put the game into a deadlock at 49-49 at the end of regulation time. Cantrell scored the winning basket for Galatia in the overtime.

Equality led Mills Prairie all the way in gaining a non-loop victory 58-46. The winners went ahead 11-10 at the quarter, extending the advantage to 30-24 at the half and 41-35 after three quarters.

Milligan paced the winners with 17 points. Merritt of MP was high for the game with 19.

In the preliminary game the Equality yearlings won 64-42, marking their 10th victory in the last eleven starts.

Ridgway couldn't keep up with a bigger Norris City five and bowed by a score of 83-53. Crayne of Ridgway and Bruce of Norris City waged a great individual scoring battle with the former the winner 28-26.

In the preliminary game Norris City won 68-36. Greathouse, Norris City's fine freshman prospect, scored 31 points. Clifford had 18 for Ridgway.

Rosiclare went to Karnak and scored a win, 64-60.

Charges AEC Iron Curtain 'Around Thought'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The chairman of the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee has charged the Atomic Energy Commission with trying to put an "iron curtain around thought."

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D-NM) made the charge in a face to face exchange with AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss Tuesday.

Strauss—testifying before Anderson's committee—hotly denied it. He just had announced AEC plans to release to private industry soon "all but a small amount" of information on peaceful uses of nuclear energy.

Simultaneously, the AEC announced it has received seven private proposals to develop, build and operate small nuclear power plants. They are a type that could supply heat and electricity to American or foreign communities.

The argument began when Anderson, who has been feuding with the AEC chief, asked Strauss if a college student who developed a new atomic process could be prosecuted if he published his idea.

Korean War Vet Dies At Cave-in-Rock

Herbert Foster, 22, Korean War veteran, died Tuesday morning at the home of his mother, Mrs. Lizzie Foster, in Cave-in-Rock.

Funeral services will be Thursday at 2 p. m. at the Cave-in-Rock Baptist church. Rev. John Henshaw will officiate and burial will be in the Cave Hill cemetery with military rites by Cave-in-Rock post No. 215.

He also leaves his wife.

Strauss said the student would be "subject to penalty like any other citizen." AEC Counsel William Mitchell said the student would be forced to treat his discovery as a government secret.

"This constitutes an iron curtain around thought," Anderson declared. "We didn't write that into law... anyone who has a thought must submit the thought to the Atomic Energy Commission."

"The law doesn't operate that way," Strauss replied. "Scientific material is always printed and will continue to be printed." He noted there have been no such prosecutions.

Eisenhower Decision By End of Month

er Dr. Milton Eisenhower, president of Pennsylvania State University, has no political ambitions.

Shortly after Mr. Eisenhower walked into the news conference room where 238 reporters were waiting, he was asked flatly whether he would announce his reelection decision before March 1.

He said he had always avoided setting a fixed date, but that he thought by the end of February he would have enough information on which to base a decision.

The President spoke slowly and with what appeared to be deep sincerity as he said he thought he would trust his own feelings more than a decision by his doctors.

The President will undergo an extensive physical checkup Feb. 13-14 to determine the extent of his recovery from the heart attack which he suffered Sept. 24.

He said that aside from the actual timing of his decision, he had to convince himself that he could carry on the burdens of the presidency sufficiently.

He explained that if he did not feel he could measure up to the job, then his decision would be obvious.

Clasping his hands before him and rocking on the balls of his feet, the President reminded reporters that he had never been more hopeful than his physicians about his condition.

But, he continued, if he had to announce that he was unable to seek reelection, he hoped that it would be done in a manner which would not cause a shock either in the stock market or the country as a whole.

His present inclination, he said, would be to make his announcement at a news conference, but he was not sure on this point.

Other conference highlights: Gas Bill: He has not decided whether he will sign the controversial natural gas bill.

Campaign Contributions: He feels the whole question of campaign contributions by organizations and pressure groups needs very earnest study.

Credit Controls: He agrees with Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey that government controls on credit are not needed in the present economic situation. But if Congress should decide to authorize such controls on a stand-by basis he can assure the lawmakers the power will not be abused by his administration.

Postal Rates: He hopes that good sense will prevail and that Congress this year will finally approve his twice-rejected plea for higher postal rates.

Atomic War: An all-out war fought with modern atomic weapons would not be a military contest in the historic sense of the word but would simply amount to race suicide. That is why this country cannot suddenly stop all other kinds of defense spending and concentrate on such weapons as guided missiles with atomic warheads.

Council Opens Bids for Street Repair Materials

care of it, Stuh and the union members were told.

"We don't deny there is a need for a salary increase," one member said.

Stuh said he was not satisfied with the council's response and indicated that a state labor conciliator would be brought into the matter.

Jesse Gibbons appeared before the council and asked for a resolution from the council permitting wrestling in the city. The resolution was approved.

Gibbons explained that he represented the Harrisburg Lions club, which will stage a wrestling show in Harrisburg March 24 and that such a resolution was necessary.

He declared that the Lions contemplated building a picnic shelter in the planned park area of Lake Harrisburg—with barbecue ovens, tables and lights—with profits from the wrestling show.

Plan Dial System
R. R. Brown, motor fuel tax engineer, discussed with the council possible types of surfacing for the city's No. 1 motor fuel tax street construction program for 1956—the paving of Main street from McHanev to Robinson and Robinson from Main to Granger. The council will study his several proposed surfaces.

Millard Lynch, Harrisburg exchange manager of the General Telephone Company of Illinois, told the council that his company plans to convert the Harrisburg telephones to the dial system in an estimated year or 15 months and suggested that the council start figuring out a system for handling fire calls to the volunteer firemen.

At present an operator calls the firemen but under the dial system, he explained, there will be no operator on hand to take care of this.

He told of how several other cities handle the situation.

U. S. Will Try to Avoid Floating Balloons Over Russia

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States told Moscow today it will try as much as possible to avoid floating weather balloons over the Soviet Union.

Informed sources said this American promise was contained in a diplomatic note delivered in Moscow by U. S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen.

Moscow on Sunday vigorously protested the sending of U. S. radio equipped photographic balloons over Soviet territory. It charged they have been used to spy on activities behind the Iron Curtain.

Wheat Users
Prehistoric races, such as the Swiss lake dwellers, are known to have cultivated wheat, while the Chinese claim the use of it as food 2700 years before the Christian era.

Last Two Months Driest in 25 Years in Illinois

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Weathermen reported today that the last two months were the driest in 25 years in Illinois.

The state climatologist's office said rainfall in December and January totaled about the same as the 1.26 average recorded in 1930-31.

Normal rainfall for the two months is 3.42 inches in northern Illinois and 5.26 inches in the south, the office said.

The report said final statewide averages showed December precipitation was 47 inch, breaking the all-time Illinois low of .54 inch set in 1890.

However, it said "recent substantial precipitation in southern Illinois apparently marked the closing" of the dry period.

"It is still fairly dry in the west and northwest where recent snows have been light," the report said.

"However, with February precipitation indicated to be above normal in all sections of the state, there should be continued improvement of soil moisture conditions."

Faces Sentencing For Failure to Admit Being Red

CHICAGO (AP)—Ernest Clarence Jones Sr., 46, formerly of Pana, Ill., faces sentencing March 15 for failure to say he was a Communist when he applied for a federal job.

Jones, now a Chicago resident, pleaded guilty in Federal Court Tuesday to a charge he filed an affidavit when applying for a job with the Atomic Energy Commission which did not say he had been a member of the Communist Party.

The government said it could prove Jones was a party member from 1939 to 1941 and a cell leader while in Pana.

Jones was freed on $5,000 bond. The maximum penalty for the offense is five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Ex-Stratton Aide Involved in Brawl, Back on Payroll

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—A former administrative assistant to Gov. William G. Stratton who resigned as the aftermath of a striptease night club brawl is back on the state payroll as a $400 a month Labor Department inspector.

Joseph D. Carey Jr., who became involved in the night club fracas during state fair week last August, went on the Labor Department payroll Jan. 16, the state auditor's office reported Tuesday.

William W. Downey, administrative aide to Stratton, said the hiring of Carey "naturally had the approval of the administration." He said Carey is in a "training program" and "wouldn't have been put in there if he wasn't qualified."

Downey said Carey had been off the state payroll for six months because of the night club incident and "I think that's sufficient discipline for anybody."

Carey became involved in an altercation with two other customers and proprietor Ken Overlin, former middleweight boxing champion, at Overlin's "Show Bar," now closed.

Two state police captains in the club with Carey also were criticized. Two state patrolmen came to quell the disorder after Overlin called the sheriff's office.

House Passes Money Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House has passed a $3,618,699,000 money bill to run the Treasury and Post Office departments and the U. S. Tax Court in fiscal 1957.

It is the first regular money bill of the session. The House approved it by a voice vote and sent it to the Senate.

Members shoved the bill through without controversy and with no attempt to amend it. As approved by the Appropriations Committee, it carried $31,173,000 less than President Eisenhower requested.

The Post Office will get the bulk of the money—$2,973,900,000 as against $3,000,000 sought by the President. Treasury would get $648,507,000, all but $5,073,000 of what the President asked. The Tax Court would get $1,365,000, as requested.

Announce Exams for Guards at Menard, Chester, Vandalia

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Announcement of guard examinations for employment at Menard penitentiary, Chester Security Hospital and Vandalia State Farm has been made by the Illinois Civil Service Commission. For the past several months, persons qualifying in guard examinations have been eligible for employment only at institutions in the northern part of the state.

The commission announced that tests will be given at its continuous test centers in Chicago, Springfield and West Frankfort from now through March 31. According to Miss Maude Myers, commission president, competition for employment at the southern institutions is expected to be keen. She added that the best possibilities for immediate employment continued to be at the Joliet-Stateville penitentiary.

Details of the testing program may be obtained from local state employment service offices or from the Illinois Civil Service Commission, 501 Armory building, Springfield.

Wars, Welfare State Can Ruin Economy of Tax-Paying Nations

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP)—War and the welfare state are the combination which lynch the individual taxpayer. The combination ultimately can lynch an entire country. It can, that is, if it is a tax-paying country.

France and Italy, where there is a lot of tax-strike ballyhoo, have the taxes on the books. But a lot of citizens don't pay any or all of them. Not so in the United States and, for example, Great Britain.

Great Britain is a sort of preview for the United States of what is likely to happen here if the U. S. both continues to stumble into wars and expands its welfare statism. Secretary of Treasury George M. Humphrey told a breakfast group here recently that U. S. taxes are so high "they are curtailing to some extent the very basis of our freedom—initiative." He said there must be a money incentive to make a free economy click.

Heavy as U. S. taxes are, the income levies and sales taxes are not in the same class with those imposed in Great Britain. The British have advanced much further toward exhaustion through wars and the welfare state than the United States, so far. The United States thrives on unmatched production of goods.

Up To 98 Per Cent
The British income tax on individuals and corporations begins at just more than 47 per cent—boom! Just like that. It grades up steeply to between 97 and 98 per cent. The British sales tax has been as high as 66 2/3 per cent even on some articles of clothing. It has gone as high as 100 per cent on thereabouts on some luxuries.

The British do not have a multiplicity of state and local taxes, as in the United States, although there is a local tax. They have no capital gains tax, although that may come soon. There were only 155 individuals in Great Britain in the fiscal year 1955 whose net income after taxes was more than $16,800.

A mere 6,510 individuals made the next lower $11,200 - $16,800 bracket. More than half of all British taxpayers, 10,530,000 of them, were in the $700-1,400 bracket after taxes. Only 121,909 British taxpayers were able to make the $5,600 - $11,200 bracket.

Hundreds of thousands of American taxpayers have $16,800 or more left after taxes each year. Drop down to the bracket where tax is paid on gross income of between $10,000 and $15,000 a year and there are more than 2.2 million of them. The Briton who escapes with $16,800 is in the 97-98 per cent tax bracket. The U. S. taxpayers with the same salvage pays around 20 per cent.

Geological Survey Report Shows Sandstone Formations

URBANA, Ill.—A report on the sandstone resources of extreme southern Illinois has been released by the Illinois Geological Survey, a division of the state Department of Registration and Education.

The report describes 11 sandstone formations that crop out in southern Illinois. A map shows locations of 32 outcrops from which samples were taken in Randolph, Jackson, Union, Johnson, Pope, Hardin, Alexander and Pulaski counties.

The report describes how the samples were tested and gives results of sieve tests and chemical analyses and data on the shape of the sand grains. These characteristics help determine for what uses the sands may be suited. The report includes suggestions as to possible commercial uses, provided further tests show that the sandstones can be worked economically.

Some of the sandstones are sources of small amounts of building stone. Silica sand might be produced from some of the sandstones by suitable processing. Silica sand is sold as molding sand, furnace sand, filter sand, sand-blast sand, glass sand and for chemical purposes and grinding to silica flour.

Authors of the report are J. E. Lamar, geologist and head of the Survey's industrial minerals division, and D. L. Biggs, assistant geologist in the same division.

Michigan ranks second among states of the Union in the production of paper and paperboard.

Seven Out of 10 Students at SIU from Families with Less Than $6,000 Income

CARBONDALE, Ill.—Seven out of ten students at Southern Illinois university who participated in a recent survey came from families with annual incomes under $6,000, according to Dr. Jacob O. Bach, director of educational research services.

Of more than 1,300 students who answered questionnaires, only one in 20 listed a yearly family income of over $10,000. Eleven percent come from families with annual earnings under $2,000.

Excluding tuition, students at Southern spend most of their money on room and board, recreation and entertainment, and transportation, the survey revealed.

Among male students surveyed, veterans are spending more than non-veterans, "mainly because the veteran gets a government allotment and has more to spend," Dr. Bach said.

Non-veteran students said their money comes mainly from family assistance and part-time jobs. Whereas only one out of five veterans reported obtaining money from home, two-thirds of the non-veterans and four-fifths of the female students surveyed received income from their families.

Southern's coeds are easy on dad's bank account, the survey indicated. Average cost for undergraduate women per quarter, excluding tuition, is $206, which is $155 less than the undergraduate male veteran spends. (Each quarter or term lasts three months.)

Observed Dr. Bach: "It's quite likely, of course, that the veteran is spending part of that $155 on one of those economical coeds."

Claiming of Exemptions Covers Broad Field; Take Problems to Revenue Service

Editor's Note: The commissioner of internal revenue, in the third of five dispatches, takes up the question of exemptions for taxpayers.

By RUSSELL C. HARRINGTON
Commissioner Of Internal Revenue
Written For United Press

WASHINGTON (U.P.) — The claiming of exemptions on income tax returns raises a great number of questions.

They cover such matters as support of elderly relatives, school age children who earn money, divorced couples, survivors, and the matter of extra exemptions for the aged and blind.

The law covers most of the possibilities, but individual taxpayers still come to us with these problems and their variations.

To start with, each taxpayer is entitled to one $600 exemption for himself, or herself. The taxpayer gets another $600 exemption if he's 65 or older and still another $600 if he is blind. The $600 extra exemption for blindness can be claimed by the taxpayer at any age. This also applies to the blind wife or husband of the taxpayer, but not to any other dependent.

Incidentally, a point to remember in determining your age for tax purposes is that you are considered to be one year older the day before your birthday. So, if you reached your 65th birthday on or before Jan. 1 of this year, you may legally claim that extra $600 exemption for all of 1955.

Dependent Exemptions
The matter of exemptions for dependents is handled differently from those of your husband or wife.

An illustration of this is a taxpayer supporting his mother who is 70. He is entitled to just one $600 exemption for her, and not the extra one because she is over 65.

For a person to qualify as a dependent, the taxpayer must provide more than one-half of his or her support. The only exception to this rule is where several persons contributed to the support of an individual. For example, if several sons and daughters supported their mother, but none contributed over half the support, they may designate one of their number to claim the exemption. The person designated must have contributed over 10 per cent of the support and all the others who contributed over 10 per cent must file a declaration that they will not claim their mother as a dependent. Form 2120 is available at the nearest Internal Revenue Service office for this purpose.

With so many more children going on to college and the cost of higher education going up, Congress changed the law in 1954 to permit a child under 19, or a "full-time" student of any age to be claimed as a dependent if he receives more than half of his support from his parents. The law defines a full-time student as one who is engaged in full-time study at a recognized school for at least five months of the year, or who is pursuing one of certain full-time on-farm training programs.

A typical question asked at our offices last year was: My son, who is 21 years old, earned $650 working as a waiter while attending college in 1955. May I claim him as a dependent on my 1955 returns?

The answer is yes, if you furnished more than one half of his support during the year and if he was a "full-time" student.

Another question along this line was: "My son—who is a minor—worked as a delivery boy for our grocer. For this, the grocer paid me $200. Must I include this amount in my income for the year 1955?"

The answer here is no. That's because money paid for the services of a minor child are included in his gross income, not the income of the parent—even though the minor child does not receive the money.

If the child earns $600 or more he must file a return for himself. He may claim his own personal exemption on his own return. Thus a child may actually qualify as two exemptions: Once on his own return and once on his parents'.

The law provides special tax rates for any individual who qualifies as a "head of household." This means, in general, an unmarried or legally separated person who furnished more than half the maintenance cost of a household which also was occupied during the entire year by (a) any related person for whom you are entitled to a dependency exemption or (b) an unmarried child, grandchild, or stepchild, even though such child is not a depend-

THESPIAN PLAY SCENE—Little Anne Shirley, an orphan at Hopewell Orphanage, silently endures a curt reprimand from Miss Stearn, an attendant, and Florence Remsen, superintendent. Yearning for a home of her own, the pathetic little girl is unexpectedly given an opportunity and determines to make the most of it. Joan Priest plays the part of Anne Shirley in the forthcoming Thespian production of "Anne of Green Gables" at HTHS Bonnell gym Saturday night, Feb. 11. ent. You may also qualify if you maintain a home elsewhere for your father or mother and either qualifies as your dependent.

Form 1040 must be used to claim the benefits of the lower tax rates for a "head of household." The saving to you is about one-half that of married couples filing joint returns. The cost of maintaining a household includes such items as rent, insurance, repairs, utilities, food, etc. It does not include clothing, educational, medical expenses and the like even though you may pay these.

It is best to remember when a problem of a dependent arises that he or she must meet five tests.

First, you must have furnished more than half of his or her support. Second, the dependent's gross income must have been less than $600 for the taxable year or, if it exceeds $600, the dependent child must be under 19 or a "full-time" student. Third, the dependent must be related, or at least a member of your household and have your home as his or her principal dwelling place. Fourth, the dependent must be a citizen or resident of the United States, or a resident of Canada, Mexico, the Republic of Panama, or the Canal Zone. And last, but not least he or she must not be making a joint return with his or her husband or wife.

Now that we have the matter of forms and their use and some of the problems of dependents out of the way, let me again mention the never-repeated-too-often reminder to file your return as soon as possible prior to this year's deadline of midnight, April 16.

Employment in January Drops 1,247,000 Persons

WASHINGTON AP—Employment dropped by 1,247,000 persons last month but was still at a record level for January.

The drop was largest December-to-January decline in four years. It left the total number of employed civilians at 62,891,000. The employed total was 2,741,000 higher than in January, 1955.

The Commerce and Labor departments announced the figures today. They said an unusual decline in manufacturing contributed to the employment drop.

The main causes were the end of the Christmas expansion in retail trade and the postal service, and winter cutbacks in construction and farming.

The number of unemployed persons looking for jobs rose by 458,000—about as expected, the department said—to 2,885,000. This total was 462,000 lower than in January, 1955 and slightly lower than in January, 1953.

The increase in unemployment was much less than the decline in employment because many temporary Christmas holiday workers withdrew from the labor market instead of seeking new jobs.

Processors have estimated "more than 50,000 tons of dry feathers are produced yearly. Scientists say the great volume of waste is a source of almost pure protein.

For Period He Was Held Prisoner

CHICAGO AP—A former Illinois soldier and his attorney said today they would demand an open hearing before a federal commission from which the soldier seeks pay for the period he was a prisoner of war in Korea.

The former soldier, Douglas E. Stephens, now a service station attendant at Grayslake, Ill., said he received an honorable discharge from the Army in October, 1953, about two months after he was released from two years and three days of captivity in Korea.

He re-enlisted, he said, and was given what he called an undesirable discharge after hearings before a field board at Ft. Sheridan. He said the allegations against him said that he received special favors from the Red Korean officials at his POW camp in Korea, cultivated friendships with them, and prepared propaganda material.

Louis Kutner, his attorney, said in demanding an open hearing that Stephens was "framed" by "cess-pool informants," that he had no chance to confront witnesses against him and was given no opportunity to cross-examine.

"I have done nothing wrong and I have nothing to hide," said Stephens. "I demand an open hearing." He said he attended no study classes as alleged, sought no favors and got treatment no different from that given anyone else, by his captors.

Just a Corpse at Twilight

By Robert Martin

THE STORY: Seeking permission to hold an autopsy on Frank Osborn, who has been dead six months, James Bennett, investigator for the State Industrial Welfare Commission, calls on the widow and finds her dead. Just prior to the discovery, someone had taken a shot at Bennett with a .22 rifle.

VIII

I stayed with Alice Osborn. I couldn't help her, but I respected her in death, and in comparison what had happened to me on the back porch was trivial. It was a part of my profession, but most certainly not a part of the work I was doing for the Welfare Commission. Death by a bullet is not an industrial hazard, although it is a definite occupational hazard for those engaged in war, police work or private investigation. I turned off the water running into the sink, and then knelt beside the still body once more. The bullet had entered her heart, or close enough to cause death, maybe not instantly, but within a few moments. The smile on her lips was some consolation; maybe she had been thinking of something pleasant when the bullet came.

I went to the telephone I'd seen from the front porch. On the stand beside it was a stamped addressed envelope. I saw my own handwriting and my name, James T. Bennett, Blue Ridge Hotel, Steel City. I tore it open, took out the printed autopsy release form I had sent her. Alice Osborn had signed it. I hereby give my full and unqualified consent to a post mortem examination to be made upon the body of FRANK O. OSBORN, who was my HUSBAND, and I agree to abide by the regulations of the Industrial Welfare Commission and to accept the result of such post mortem examination as final and binding upon all parties concerned.

I returned the paper to the envelope, placed it in my inside coat pocket, picked up the phone and asked a lazy-voiced operator to ring Sheriff Abner Cornwallis in Beech Tree. I located him at the Winchester Inn.

The female who answered I guessed to be Lucy Dorn. I said, "Is Sheriff Cornwallis there?" "Oh, it's Mr. Bennett—I recognized your voice. Can I watch the autopsy?"

"I don't know," I snapped. "Call the sheriff."

"You don't need to bite my head off. Hang on."

I hung on. Presently a gruff voice said impatiently, "Yes, yes, what is it?"

"This is Bennett, Sheriff. I met you in the bar there yesterday afternoon."

"Oh, yes."

"I want to report a shooting, Sheriff," I told him. "I called your office and your deputy told me—"

"Can't it wait?" he cut in peevishly. "This is my lunch hour, and I'm still on my first nooner, and—"

"Yes, sir. Somebody shot Mrs. Osborn."

"Alice? Frank's widow?"

"That's right. I just found her. She's dead. I'm at her place."

I went back into the living room and sat at the telephone stand. Idly I opened a drawer. It was filled with paid bills and a few letters in torn-open envelopes. I began to read neat handwriting in blue ink: "Dear Sister . . ."

I noted the return address on the envelope, Mrs. Louis Woodruff, Fort Wayne, Ind., and as I replaced the letter in the drawer I thought sadly that Alice would never see her sister again. In a corner of the drawer was a little bundle of letters held together with a rubber band. A printed return address in the corner of the top letter caught my eye—R. C. Jarrett, M. D. I am naturally curious, even snoop, a sort of necessary occupational disease. I opened the envelope and read penciled words on a printed letterhead:

Darling: Why do you treat me as you do? You know I love you, have always loved you, long before you married Frank. Please call me tonight after office hours. I can't go on like this and must see you, Dick.

I picked up the little bundle of letters, thinking that they were all from Dr. Jarrett. But I was wrong; the next one also bore a printed return address: The Tweed Funeral Home, Mortician Service, On the Square, Beech Tree. I opened this.

My Dearest Alice: It was wonderful being with you last Wednesday—I have lived in the clouds ever since! But, darling, why can't we be married now? You have waited six months and I'm sure Frank would want you to be happy. I will call you on Sunday. All my love, always, Wilbur.

I didn't read any more of the letters, but I thumbed through them. All were either from Wilbur Tweed or Dr. Jarrett, about fifty-fifty. Two grown men writing like a couple of sophomores to a mature and lovely widow. But even as I jeered, I felt a small sympathy for them.

I went out to the front porch. I looked up and down the highway. I heard the sound of a car, or maybe more than one. The first braking, swung into the drive, scattering stones, and rocked to a stop. Dr. Jarrett leaped out, a black bag in his hand.

"In the kitchen," I said gently.

Behind the wheel of the second car was a young man in a gray blouse, black tie and a wide-brimmed gray felt hat. Sheriff Abner Cornwallis was beside him. They got out and walked toward me, the young deputy hitching at a gun belt and swaggering a little. A cigar was clamped between the sheriff's yellow teeth.

"Dead, huh?" he said, chewing the cigar, watching me with his little bloodshot eyes.

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Hollywood on TV: Television's newest quiz show, "Do You Trust Your Wife?" assures "trust fund" income for winning contestants, but it's a go-for-broke move for Edgar Bergen in his first weekly TV show.

"I'm going for broke, career-wise," he told me. "I'm not going to fight a trend. I'll just try to understand it. I'm still a mystified student. If I don't enjoy it I'll quit. I don't like ulcers or heartaches."

But cracks about Bergen being rusty as a ventriloquist aren't disturbing him. He laughs: "Radio made me sloppy and I know it. I'm going to wait and see if the show is a success first before I hold my lips still."

Except for two spectaculars in 1951 and occasional guestings, Bergen, one of the all-time radio greats, mixed all weekly shows until now.

"I decided a comedian shouldn't be on every week," he says. "I like this show because I'm not out there saying, 'I'm going to be funny, folks.' I first ignored my agents who said, 'TV won't wait for you, Bergen. TV will create its own stars.' Well, TV has created stars and killed them. But the old school—the Bennys, the Cantors, the Durantes and the Hopes—are still around. Maybe there's hope for me."

A TV quiz show with only millionaires as contestants keeps haunting Don Morgan's dreams. It's titled, "We Take It Away." For every missed question, the millionaires give the show $5,000. The show donates the money to charity — and it's all deductible on the income tax forms.

It's an idea. And one way of humanizing millionaires before the U. S. public.

"Don't forget the credits" is in the "Remember the Alamo" league in Hollywood. Omission of a credit line on a movie or TV show is tantamount to impaling oneself on a long, sharp spike. But all those little blubs about who did what are a waste of time and an imposition on the audience, says one TV producer, Howard Blake.

There are no credits on "Queen For a Day," the show he produces for NBC-TV. Says Blake: "No one cares who I am, who the audio engineer is or anyone else for that matter. Technical and creative people deserve recognition in our industry. To make sure they get it, I plan to run full-page ads in some of our trade papers. That's where it will do some good."

Want Ads Helped Firm Become Big

NEW YORK — How a single four-line newspaper want ad turned the tide for the Fuller Brush Company is told in the February issue of Pageant magazine.

Alfred C. Fuller, founder and board chairman of the company, advertised for dealers in the Syracuse Post Standard in 1909 while he himself was getting home-to-home orders. The four-line want ad brought him many inquiries, and soon thereafter newspaper want ads had built a large sales force.

emotional scenes aren't the same. When a little old lady met her son who had left home 37 years ago, she looked up at him and said:

"Alfie, your bloomin' tea's gettin' cold!"

"The Original Fuller Brush Man," tells the success story of the elder Fuller and of his son, A. Howard Fuller, who has succeeded him as president of the firm which now does an annual retail business of $85,000,000.

The company has used want ads consistently since the original one in Syracuse in 1909 proved the first turning point in its success.
